

THE ROY G. POST FOUNDATION

CHAMPIONS' CHALLENGE

The Waste Management Symposia (WMS) recently completed its most highly attended conference. As a non-profit educational organization, we made a commitment and set a goal to double our contribution to university scholarships and STEM education. We've created the Post Foundation Champions' Challenge to achieve this goal, allowing individuals and corporations to contribute to the Roy G. Post Foundation.

As our industry faces the challenge of an aging workforce, the Post Foundation will continue to attract young professionals to a career in radioactive waste management. The foundation will do this not just by providing scholarships, but by continuing to communicate to students throughout the world about our industry's many career opportunities and the environmental challenges we are successfully solving every year.

THE CHALLENGE

Move up a level each time your total contribution reaches the next category.
